

Settle in, stay a while.

In 1969 a Bendigo pharmacist named Stuart Anderson planted vines on this land, among the first in the region since phylloxera swept through a century earlier. For more than fifty years the cellar door that grew beside them was where the community gathered.

We took up the story in 2025. The vines and the view are as they were.
The welcome is ours.

Our house wines come from Balgownie, the estate's first chapter, and pour by the glass. Everything on the pages that follow was chosen to be shared slowly, over a long table, with people you love.

Sol, the sun. Terra, the earth. And the vine.
